

Welcome to Paso Robles
Wine Country

Jack Creek Cellars

Our vineyard and winemaking practices are mutually defined by quality and close personal attention. Hand-crafting limited amounts of sumptuous wines for you to enjoy is our daily focus.

Brief History of wine in the Paso Robles AVA

Grapes were first introduced into the Paso Robles area in 1797 by missionaries at Mission San Miguel Arcangel, where over one thousand vines were planted. Commercial wine growing, however, wasn't started until the 1880s with the establishment of Ascension Winery, today known as York Mountain Winery, the longest continuously operating winery in the County.

Since 1990, when there were fewer than 20 wineries in Paso Robles, a large expansion of activity has seen the number rise to more than 170 wineries by the early 2000s. Wine critic Robert M. Parker, Jr. commented on the region's promise of quality of wine, emphasizing the wineries Alban Vineyards, L'Aventure, Linne Calodo, Saxum Vineyards, Villa Creek Cellars and Tablas Creek Vineyard as the "leading Paso pioneers".

Jack Creek Cellars is a great winery to visit. Make sure you look up Jack Creek Cellars address and driving directions online at VineCentral.com. When you are at Jack Creek Cellars tell them Vine Central sent you. If you are looking for some great wine country events VineCentral.com is also the perfect place to start your search for all wine country events in California. I love the friendly people at Jack Creek Cellars and can not wait to go back. Try Jack Creek Cellars red wine, it is YUMMY! The Jack Creek Cellars is in such a beautiful place, I wish I could live there:) Next time you are in Paso Robles please visit this great winery, in the mean time grab a glass of Jack Creek Cellars wine and close your eyes thinking about beautiful vineyards where Jack Creek Cellars are grown...I guarantee it will make the wine taste a little better!

www.VineCentral.com

Tell the winery VineCentral sent you!

Paso Robles California